Love your local farmers' markets!

While it may be tempting to mourn the loss of fall's abundance and feel sadness when saying goodbye to warm-weather crops like tomatoes and peppers, it's important to remember how many edible treasures thrive during the Monterey Bay area's gentle winter season. We enjoy a rainbow of local winter squash, citrus gems and greens galore, and many of our farmers' markets stay open all winter to provide them. So embrace the cozy, nourishing, warming potential of wintertime menu planning... You'll find you won't miss those peppers at all.
